As an animal lover with two beautiful Cocker Spaniels and three cats, it's a no surprise that I love this book. In fact, all dog lovers are going to want a copy of this book, for your bedside table or coffee table. This is a hardcover picture book dedicated to dogs as they pose and ham it up for the camera.

The author has created a collage of professionally shot vivid color and black and white photographs that mimics the effect of being taken in an old fashioned photo booth, only with dogs. These pictures are absolutely hilarious! The expressions on the faces of the precious canines kept me entertained for hours. Anytime you need a pick me up, this book will give your spirits a boost. As a professional photographer for over twenty years, specializing in animal photography, these incredible photos have captured the essence of man and woman's best friend. The idea for this book came from the author's online photos, which was so well received, she decided to put the photos in book, and I am so happy she did. I found the author's notes on how she manages to get the dogs to pose for the camera very interesting, as well as her insights on the joy of pet ownership. The best answer I got was, ' We have an old mutt that has very few teeth, bad breath, is scared of his own shadow, and has periodic seizures.

This is one of the most imaginative picture books about dogs I have come across in a very long time. If you love dogs.. And who doesn't? Then you will not want to miss this book. A photo booth brings to mind fun times with friends, squeezing close together and making funny faces. But who would have thought a group of dogs would have t Do you need a pick-me-up from a bad day? But who would have thought a group of dogs would have the same great time. These dogs are absolutely adorable and author Lynn Terry clearly captured their personalities. There are photos of dogs sitting still, licking each other, and playing with each other. As a professional photographer Lynn Terry has always had a love for everything vintage. So when she decided to take photos of dogs for a local pit bull rescue group she used old curtains reminiscent of old photo booth drapes. The results of the photo shoots were better than she expected and everyone she shared it with loved them. Because of this great experience she experimented with different backdrops and dogs.

But the project was put aside until the death of her beloved dog DeeDee. She regretted not taking any pictures with DeeDee so she started the photo booth series to photograph owners with their dogs. The owners loved the photos Lynn Terry took. As an animal lover and a dog owner I love the photos she captured. You can see the intelligence, emotion and playfulness from all of these dogs. This is a collection I will share with all my family and friends. Jan 15, Anne rated it really liked it Shelves: non-

When I went into work at the library the other morning, my supervisor had narrowly avoided an accident on her way in, and she was fuming.
